TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1744.

Warsaw, February 7.

HERE never certainly was a Kingdom in such Confusion as ours is at present. The Senators that were assembled at Leopol have dissolved their Assembly, without being able to adjust the Differences between Count Tarlo and Prince Radzivil; the former persisting in his Resolution to keep Possession of the Estates of Prince James Sobieski, notwithstanding that they have been adjudged by Law to the Crown, from whence Disputes are like to follow, that of necessity prove detrimental to the publick Peace.

The Insurrections in Lithuania, they are immediately grouped on the Oppressions of the Jews, and at first, but trivial, several small Bodies rising in different Places; but now they are united under a Head, whose Name is Woitszilow, a Man less distinguished by birth, than his Abilities; which appear to be great, from the circular Letters he has written to the Districts, by which he has every where raised Troops; and has, at present, about him between 10,000 Men. Prince Radzivil has drawn together some Troops, in order to oppose him; but they are above 200 Men, and therefore we are rather apprehensive that they will exasperate this Malecontent, and be of their reducing him to Reason.

February 1. Yesterday in the Evening arrived the Doria from Frankfurt, where he had resided in the Service of the Pope, to his Imperial Majesty. He arrived in this City, not only with all imaginable Esteem, on account of his high Quality and Dignity, but also with general Joy and Satisfaction, in view of the amiable Qualities with which he is received. We apprehend, that the English Consul here received new Instructions, since he has lately taken Ship of his own Nation, and two Dutch Vessels, Freight, and is treating for two or three more. Most Things are pretty quiet here, there seems to be no immediate Design upon Flanders. Orders, however, have been sent to our Minister at a certain Place to present a Second Memorial on the Subject of the Treaty of Worms, in order to shew, how inconvenient it is with the Professions made by the contracting Parties to that Treaty, in respect to their Care and Concern for the Liberties of Europe, to pretend to dispose of the Dominions of this Republick for their own Convenience, without her Consent.

February 12. We have not observed, since the beginning of the present War, so many Conferences in so short a Time, as have been lately at Court. It seems, that we shall have three Armies in the Field next Year. One upon the Rhine, the Command of which is not disposed of, but many People think will be given to Count Konigseg; another in Flanders, under the Charles, assisted by Veldt-Marshal Count Traun; and in Bohemia, under Veldt-Marshal Count Oliver. By this Disposition of her Forces, the Queen affects to cover her Dominions on every Side. As to Affairs in Italy, the Generals Colloredo and Brown have been sent thither, with Orders and Instructions to do Things to the utmost, that the Spanish Army, at the Frontiers of Naples, may be destroyed, and they can be disengaged by the Efforts of the Crown in their Favour. They have likewise Instructions, as to the joining the Queen's Troops with those of the King of Sardinia, in case it should be found necessary; and we flatter ourselves, that, upon this Head, no Prosecutions have been taken, as will speedily answer our Expectations, and deliver us from all farther Intrigues on that Side. Not only the Baggage, but some of the Domesticks of Prince Charles and the Archduchess are sent out for Brussels; so that it is believed, that their Departure is only deferred for a few Days, and not weeks, as was reported.

IRELAND.
Speech of his Grace the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to both Houses of Parliament, on Thursday, the 15th February, 1743.

My Lords and Gentlemen,
It is reasonable that you should enjoy the Benefit of great Dispatch, with which you have gone thro' the Business of this Session, by an early Return to the Affairs of your Private Affairs. I am persuaded, that you will all, in your several Stations, continue to employ your Weight and Influence in such Manner, as to promote Loyalty to his Majesty, unite and strengthen the Protestant Interest, enforce Obedience to the Laws, and maintain the Peace and good Order of the Kingdom.

Amongst the many good Laws, which have been passed in the Course of this Session, I had a very particular Satisfaction in giving the Royal Assent to that for the better Performance of Quarantine. The Importance of which, towards securing the Lives of his Majesty's Subjects, is so great and visible, that I cannot doubt, but it will be duly and faithfully carried into Execution.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

By his Majesty's Command, I return you Thanks in his Name, for the Supplies which you have granted, with your usual Carefulness and Unanimity. This is a fresh Instance of your known Affection to his Majesty, and of your just Confidence in his Government.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I take this Opportunity, to return you my Thanks, as well for the very obliging Addresses of both Houses, as for the great Readiness, which you have always shewn to facilitate the Publick Service, during my Administration. I assure you, that I will not fail, upon my return into the Royal Presence, to make such a Representation to his Majesty of his People of Ireland, as the repeated Proofs of their unshaken Fidelity and Loyalty to his Majesty justly demand. And as I shall always esteem it the highest Honour to have been entrusted with the Government of this Kingdom, so I shall think myself happy, if I can, upon any Occasion, contribute to its Prosperity.

Then the Lord Chancellor declar'd, That it was his Grace the Lord Lieutenant's Pleasure, that this Parliament be prorogued to Thursday the First Day of March next; and the Parliament was accordingly prorogued to Thursday the First Day of March next.

DUBLIN, February 14. Last Saturday two Expresses arrived here from England; and the same Day an Express was dispatched to Cork.

His Grace the Duke of Devonshire hath put off his Departure for some Time. The Dublin Yacht is ordered to Portsmouth, and is to carry with her as many Pilots as can be got, and to lay in two Months Provisions.

Yesterday 60 Troopers marched thro' this City to the Water Side, and are to land at Parkgate; they are to travel thro' England, from whence they will embark for Flanders, to recruit Sir John Ligonier's Regiment.

A Proclamation is issued by his Grace the Lord Lieutenant and Council, offering a Reward of 50l. Sterling, for apprehending and convicting John Lynch, late of Summerhill, for the Murder of Margaret Walsh, near Lutterelstown.

General Post-Office, London, February 8, 1743.

WHEREAS the Post-Boy, going out with the West Mail from this Office, was this Morning, between Five and Six o'Clock, attack'd on the Highway at the Staling Place, on the other Side of Turnham-Green, by a single Highwayman, who took the said Post-Boy into a Field adjoining to the Road, and opened the Mail, and carried off the Exeter and Plymouth Bags: The Person, who committed this Robbery, is a middle-sized Man, and had on a Blue Great Coat, with his Hat tied over his Head, and he rode on a Sorrel Horse, with a White Face, about Fourteen Hands high, and made off for Acton, the Oxford Road.

This therefore is to give Notice, that whoever shall apprehend and convict, or cause to be apprehended and convicted, the Person who committed this Robbery, will be intituled to a Reward of Two Hundred Pounds, over and above the Reward given by Act of Parliament for apprehending of Highwayman: Or if any Person or Persons, whether Accomplice in the said Robbery, or knowing thereof, shall make a Discovery, whereby the Person who committed the same may be apprehended and brought to Justice, such Discoverer, or Discoverers, will, upon Conviction of the Party, be intituled to the same Reward of Two Hundred Pounds, and also have his Majesty's most gracious Pardon.

By Command of the Post-Master General,
George Shelocke, Secretary.

HOME PORTS.

DUBLIN, February 14. Arrived the Leonard, Moriarts, the Newberry, Byrne, and the Nostra Senora, Da Costa, all from Faro.

BRISTOL, February 18. Yesterday arrived the Atkins, Carter, from Oporto; the Mediterranean, Clutterbuck, from Naples; the Prince Charles, Long, from —; and the Expedition, Rositer, from Waterford.

FALMOUTH, February 16. Last Tuesday at Noon, 1

Ship from the Headland, came directly South in from Sea, in large Ships; but then, by reason of a Fog, could not discover what Nation they were of. At Three I went to Fendennis-Castle, the Weather being much clearer, and, by Help of a good Glass, could make out 16 Sail of French Men of War, two of them had Flags at their Mizzen-Tops; about which Time they fired three Guns, which was a Signal for tacking, for immediately after they made off to Sea. The Distance they were off I compute to be four Leagues S. E. and by S. They were seen off again about One in the Afternoon, by our Custom-House Smack, which one of the above Fleet chased in, within a League of the Shore, on Tuesday Evening, but she is again gone out by Way of Observation, and the Wind is now at S. W. They can't out of the Channel.

PORTSMOUTH, February 17. Came in the Frere, —, from Shoreham for Bristol; the Success, Gatterell, from Oporto; and the Eastern Branch, Glover, from Virginia for London; which last gives the following Account, viz. Last Sunday, being the 12th Instant, at 12 o'Clock, we saw 16 Sail of Ships; being thick Weather, came almost within Gunshot of us, before we discovered who they were; they appeared to be French Men of War; two of them hoisted White Flags at their Mizzen Topmast Head, and ordered me on board, and immediately inquir'd what Ships I saw that Day, and how they stood. They said they expected an English Man of War who was a-head, and were desirous to know which Way she steered. They were then about five Leagues S. S. W. from the Eddystone, by their Account, which we found right. They told me they were on a Cruise, being painted red on their Heads, and their Galleries yellow.

Weymouth, February 18. Wind W. S. W. Anchored in Portland Roads, the Thoerne, Carter, from Harwich for Liverpool.

POOL, February 18. Wind N. W. Came in the Content, Cockerell, from Sunderland for Bridport. Sailed the John and John, Tarver, for London. The John and Betsey, Gleed, from this Port, is arrived at Cape Fare. By a Letter from Capt. John Rolles, who is now at Dunkirk, I am informed, seven Sail of French Men of War, from 20 to 30 Guns, lie in that Road.

COWES, February 18. Wind W. On the 7th Instant failed the St. Anne, Rambour, for Dunkirk; the Zeeburg, Manders, for Zurickzee. The 10th came in the Mary, Ougier, from Carolina for this Port. The 12th came in the Mary, West, from Carolina for this Port: Sailed the Expedition Packet, Mourant, for Guernsey; and the Panther, Duna, for Jersey. The 17th failed the Notre Dame, Fromantine, for Dunkirk: And this Day the Middleburgh Packet, Newson, for Middleburgh. On the 7th Instant, in the Evening, was stranded in Sandown Bay, on the back of this Island, a Snow, called the Marie, Capt. Jaques Combes, from Bayonne for Havre; the Cargo, which consists chiefly of Wool, is all brought here, but the Vessel can't be got off whole, being bulged in several Places, and very much damaged; there are two Anchors and Cables, Shrouds, &c. saved.

DOVER, February 19. Our Packet Boats at Calais are stopp'd, and a general Embargo laid in all this Part of France, and no one Person is suffer'd to go out of that Kingdom; and even the Post from Flanders, &c., is stopp'd, so that there is no getting Intelligence from that Kingdom. The Mail which came from London on Thursday Night, is detain'd here for the above Reasons. We have certain Advice, that 18 Sail of French Men of War were off the Wight the Day Before Yesterday; and that Sir John Norris was informed of it Yesterday in the Afternoon; and Yesterday Morning four French Men of War were off Boulogne, steering for Dunkirk with a fair Wind; and we imagine, that by this Time the whole Brest Squadron must be in Fleming Roads, as it has blown a pretty hard Gale ever since at S. S. W. Sir John Norris would have weighed this Morning, but so smart a Gale he could not possibly.

DEAL, February 19. Wind S. W. and by S. the Men of War, &c. all remain. Came down the Jenner, Crookenden, for Barbados; the Chester, Payne, for Antigua; the Anne, Smithson, for Carolina; the Sally and Fanny, Novine, for Mahone; the Providence, Bourne, for Havre; the Exeter Merchant, Hunt, for Ezo; and the Lion, Lyon, for Liverpool. Arrived Yesterday a Ship from Leghorn, but cannot get her Name.

General Post-Office, London, January 12, 1743.

WHEREAS the Post-boy carrying the North Mail from Huntington to Strickon, was Yesterday, the 11th instant, about Six of the Clock in the Evening, attacked on the Highway, at a Place called Standgate-Hole, by a single Highwayman, who presented a Pistol to the Post-boy's Breast, and carried off the following Bags; viz. Durham, Hull, Boston, Fiskingham, Lincoln, Horncastrle, Louth, Spalding, Stamford, Bourne, and Peterborough.

The Person who committed this Robbery is a lousy Man, and had on a large dark Frock over his Coat; his Face was covered with Black, and he rode on a dark Sorrel Horse, with a White Face, and made off for the Biggledale Road.

This therefore is to give Notice, That whoever shall apprehend and convict, or cause to be apprehended and convicted, the Person who committed this Robbery, will be entitled to a Reward of Two hundred Pounds, over and above the Reward given by Act of Parliament for apprehending of Highwaymen; Or if any Person or Persons, whether Accomplice in the said Robbery, or knowing thereof, shall make a Discovery, whereby the Person who committed the same, may be apprehended, and brought to Justice, such Discoverer or Discoverers will, upon Conviction of the Party, be entitled to the same Reward of Two hundred Pounds, and also have his Majesty's most gracious Pardon.
